The Press Was Excluded.

Delegates to the Provincial Social Credit Convention which met in Edmonton last week, voted to exclude newspaper men from their sessions.

Spokesmen favoring the press-exclusion method argued newspaper reports of the convention "would not give a clear picture of what is being done." Opposing the motion, a delegate from a northern constituency declared his constituents were anxious to read reports in newspapers, favorable or unfavorable.

Considerable discussion marked an amendment suggestion correspondent of the Calgary Albertan (the Social Credit publication) be permitted to attend the convention; but the suggestion was dropped when it was pointed out the Albertan correspondent also represented another newspaper.

Licensing the Press.

A resolution to license the press was tabled, at the session of Alberta Social Credit League held in Edmonton last week, after being faced with strong opposition of some weekly newspaper editors who attended as delegates. The press licensing resolution had been proposed from Medicine Hat and Lethbridge constituencies.

The resolution, in part, reads: "Resolved that we go on record as being in favor of licensing the press in order to encourage accurate and unbiased reports of Government activities."

Will a Farmer Take Alberta Paper Money for His Wheat?

With reference to 1 of the 11 points in the Report made by the Social Credit Planning Committee—Point 7, "A provincial wholesale set up, to be formed . . . to buy wheat, for instance, from Alberta farmers, paying Alberta money for it"—the Hanna Herald has this to say:

"If provincial money is to supplant federal money by act of the Legislature a measure of disaster will be visited upon this province, the extent of which cannot be perceived at this time. We doubt, however, if that drastic action will be taken. We cannot imagine farmers selling their products for Alberta paper money. The general public dubiously as to the value of the Alberta money would discount it immediately."

Sporting Notes.

Another hockey game was played on the Collins rink on the 14th, when a team from Rexboro crossed sticks with the local team. The visitors put up a much better game than their last time here. The final score was Stony Plain 5, Rexboro 1.

Stonp's team: Louis Enders, W. Rosnau, A. Willis, O. Miller, L. Miller, W. Larson, O. Oppertshauer, Geo. Michael.

Phil Enders referee.

Stony's hockeyists journeyed up to Wabamun on Sunday, to play a return game, with practically the same players they had in Thursday's game. The Stony bunch gave a good account of themselves and won over the Wabbys by a score of 4-0.

Bill Gannon of the SS. Safeways, paid a visit to Stony over the week end. Pat Gannon is now playing on the Junior team of Southside Safeways.

Local Juvenile hockeyists have a game set for Sunday, January 31st, with an Edmonton Sandlot team, the PeeWees.

The Code for Printing.

You may now bring your dance bills, show cards and admission tickets to this office, to be printed at the old prices, as The Sun has been given to understand that the Government will not try to enforce what was called "The Code of Fair Competition and Business Practice and Schedule of Prices of the Commercial Printing Industry."

The bill had been passed at the 1936 session of the Legislature and "approved" by the Administrator of the Province.

On Dec. 31 Mr. Heller, a Norwood district printer, was announced to appear before Magistrate Gibson, Edmonton, charged with a breach of the provisions of the Code. Mr. Heller was represented by F. G. Thomson, K.C. After several adjournments, the charge against Mr. Heller was dismissed.

At the Thursday Aft. session of Alberta Social Provincial League, Premier Aberhart announced that the Government would not enforce codes which apply to any particular trade.

The resolution dealing with codes at the S.C. League's session read, in part, as follows—

"Whereas the granting of codes in certain trades is resulting in business being sent out of the province and therefore having the opposite effect to what was intended, and that as a consequence Social Credit is being endangered and laying itself open to ridicule and criticism by its opponents."

Education Concerning Wild Life Conservation Stressed At Conference

As conservers of game, Indian trappers rank high compared with their white competitors in the opinion of game experts who attended the provincial-domains wild life conference at Ottawa. Delegates paid tribute to the Indians and complained of the destructive habits of white men.

The matter came up in the course of a discussion on the possibility of working out some system of registering trap lines, under which a trapper could establish a proprietary right to a certain area and keep other trappers off.

It turned out the Indians in certain districts had settled the problem in their own informal fashion. They had evolved a system under which certain areas were the recognized trapping preserves of certain families and invaders were dealt with in effective, if rough, fashion.

The conference was called by Hon. T. A. Crerar, minister of mines and resources, who, in addressing the opening session, said the $200,000 paid out in relief for Indians last year was closely related to the depletion of fur bearing animals and the difficulties of making a living by trapping.

Numerous resolutions on a wide range of subjects relating to wild life conservation were passed. These will be submitted to Mr. Crerar for his consideration.

A plea was presented for predatory animals and birds on the ground that they are necessary to maintain a natural balance, and when destroyed the animals and birds supposed to be protected suffer deterioration. This view was sharply challenged, particularly with respect to timber wolves and their effect on the deer population.

Need for better education of children concerning wild life conservation was stressed. An entirely new point of view with respect to wild animals and birds should, it was urged, be presented to children in the schools.

The number of wild duck in Canada was now placed at the lowest level in history and it was suggested absolutely closed seasons may be necessary to protect them.

The present situation was attributed to drought, settlement, over-shooting and ill-advised drainage of swamp lands which had deprived waterfowl of their natural haunts and made no proportionate contribution to agricultural production.

It was expected creation of artificial reservoirs as a measure of drought-resistance and preservation of existing natural breeding places might to some extent repair the damage in this connection.

Building Should Be Active

Better Conditions Expected To Revive Industry In Canada

In 1925 the expenditure on all kinds of building in Canada was $160,000,000. In 1922, the construction bill was $274,000,000. It will be seen, from these figures, that the country is lagging badly in the matter of revival in that industry. However, those who study the why and the wherefore of industrial operations are of the opinion that building is going to be very active in Canada shortly. They fear that the revival will come so suddenly that preparation for it will be poor and we will experience an undesirable boom, with materials scarce and high-priced.

One of the conditions that stimulate building activity is prosperity on the farms. The West is now selling its surplus wheat at the best prices for seven years. The products of eastern Canadian farms are more easily disposed of at higher figures. It would seem that prosperity is coming back to agriculture. When that happens, it is usually the case that there is activity in building.

There is an actual shortage of residences in the greater part of Canada.—Galt Reporter.

France covers 390 of every 1,000 square miles in Africa to-day. Great Britain is next with 348, Belgium with 81, Portugal 60, Italy 50, and Egypt 31.

An Age-Old Tradition

New Year Lessons Were Once Very Popular Affairs

In Ottawa, as well as in each of the provincial capitals, the King's representatives held lessons on New Year's Day. Lord Tweedsmuir received in the Hall of Fame, Parliament Buildings, Ottawa, while the provincial lieutenant-governors for most part held their functions at the various official residences.

Unlike the formal receptions which usually feature the opening of Parliament or Legislative Assemblies, the New Year's Day lessons are thoroughly democratic and they have their roots away back in the early history of Canada. Like many domestic institutions their origin lies in the French tradition.

The lesson was an occasion in the days of the French regime in Canada, when the Governors of New France met the citizens, with all the trappings of class and caste shelved for the time being. In storied Quebec the Governor kept open house for aristocrat and proletarian, and, standing outside the old Chateau St. Louis, he greeted and shook hands with peasants and shopkeepers and courtiers de bois.

When it snowed as, according to the late Standard Biting, it occasionally does in Quebec, their Excellencies held their lessons indoors.

This age-old tradition has persisted in Canada, and on New Year's Day it was repeated again.

Although morning dress by "citizens" and uniforms by members of the armed forces are usually worn, this formal dress is far from being required in Ottawa. Citizens in sack suits receive from His Excellency the same cordial reception as those in more conventional attire.

Westminster Abbey Closed

Work For Coronation Started Early Because Skilled Labor Is Scarce

Westminster Abbey has been closed to the public and Dean Foxley Norris surrendered the keys to the government department known as the Office of Works.

Elaborate preparations for the coronation will be undertaken immediately. The Abbey's normal seating capacity of 2,500 will be increased for the coronation to 9,000. Tiny St. Faith's chapel alone will be available for private devotions.

The Abbey will be closed long prior to previous coronations owing to the impossibility of obtaining sufficient skilled labor in erecting galleries and scaffolding over the Abbey's delicate interior work.

The Abbey vergers will receive full pay during the closure although naturally they will lose the gratuities received from sightseers.

The demand for seats along the route of the coronation procession indicates the event's popularity exceeds that of King George V's silver jubilee.

Also An Offense

Overted Drivers Should Not Try To Operate A Car

A Hamilton magistrate fined an automobile driver $50 and costs for driving a car when overtaken. Tired drivers have no more business driving an automobile than intoxicated ones in the opinion of the Hamilton magistrate, and he is right. Driving while intoxicated is not an offense because traffic laws are interested in the evils of intoxication, but because the motorist who drinks and drives is incapacitated and incapacitation from any other cause, fatigue for example, is also an offense.—Arthur Enterprise-News.

Service Has Expanded

Year-End Survey Shows Canada Has 25,368 Post Offices

Canada's postal services have been substantially expanded and improved in the past 14 months, a year-end departmental survey shows.

In the 14 months, 283 new post offices have been established, distributed by provinces as follows: Nova Scotia, six; New Brunswick, 14; Quebec, 78; Ontario, 33; Manitoba, nine; Saskatchewan 29; Alberta, 17, and British Columbia, 24.

This brings the total number of post offices in Canada to 12,284, of which only 133 are operated by salaried postmasters, the rest working on a commission basis. The commission is 70 per cent. on the first $1,000, 30 per cent. on to $10,000, and 20 per cent. from there up. Postmasters on commission pay their own assistants and provide quarters for the offices.

There is, however, a rental allowance, and where the mail is "worked" at night, also a forwarding allowance. In the case of several hundred of the smaller post offices, the postmasters' only remuneration is the $100 minimum paid by the department, even where postage receipts do not amount to that.

In the country districts, 127 new rural delivery routes have been authorized in 14 months, of which 58 have actually been put into operation serving about 4,000 houses. The balance will go into operation as soon as the necessary boxes have been erected, since routes being already scheduled for inauguration early in January.

Estate Being Kept Up

King George Will Decide Fate Of Fort Belvedere

Fort Belvedere, the Duke of Windsor's favorite residence as Prince of Wales and king, has been completely cleared of furniture and effects. It will remain empty, it is understood, until King George decides its future. Linen, plate and such things have been stored at Windsor castle until the duke requires them. The Belvedere estate is being kept up perfectly, and it is believed it will go to a member of the royal family or a personal friend of the new king.

Meanwhile, preparations are proceeding at Buckingham palace to provide a suite for the king and his family who are still resident at 145 Piccadilly. A moving date has not been fixed.

Latest Type Dairy Barn

Building Designed To Provide Hygienic Production Of Milk

G. Sherman Horton of Oakfield, is supervising construction of what he describes as the largest dairy barn in New York State.

Built of tile, the barn when completed in April will provide accommodations for 300 cows with a floor space of 25,300 square feet.

"I can't tell you how much it will cost," Horton, a Rochester and Oakfield businessman, said.

The building is designed not only to make the life of "bossey" one of comparative luxury and ease, but to provide for the hygienic production of milk.

The cows will be made comfortable in all seasons through a system of forced ventilation and heating. The milk will be drawn from the cow by a vacuum system directly into a storage tank and from there through the pasteurizing unit into the bottles. No air or hands will touch the milk before it is bottled, Haxton said.

One Way To Check

Florida Winter Resorts Judge Business By Garbage Test

In the large winter resorts of Florida the garbage is bigger and better this winter. This, of course, can mean only one thing—the depression is over. In Florida the tourist agencies, hotels, and transportation companies pay no attention to government statistics, to the stock market, or the views of economists. They keep check on the visitors' garbage. They know down to the last grapefruit skin how much garbage is collected at Miami every day and they make their plans accordingly. If the garbage increases, they plan for a large season. If the garbage declines, as it did alarmingly a few years ago, they cut wages and reduce staffs. It all depends on garbage, the one indisputable economic thermometer.

You will be glad to know, therefore, that garbage is well up this year over last year and several cans above the 1929 low.—B.H., in Victoria Times.

Household Arts by Alice Brooks

Effective Crocheted in Three Colors or Bright Wool Scraps

Unless progress is made in the prevention of mental illness, it can be predicted that four children out of every hundred born in Canada will at some period of their lives be admitted to mental institutions as paupered, writes Dr. C. M. Hinchey, director of the Canadian National Committee for Mental Hygiene, in the current issue of "Health", organ of the Health League of Canada.

Fifty per cent. of mental disorders can be prevented, Dr. Hinchey asserts, in his stimulating article, highlights of which follow:

"In the first place, what are some of the principles that are of importance in the art of healthy living?"

"One of our fundamental needs in this connection is work. It is interesting to note, that the surest way of preventing mental deterioration among mental hospital patients is to keep them occupied, occupationally."

"New work to be of full value must make a pull upon imagination and initiative. It should not be characterized by monotony and drudgery. It should give us the satisfaction of worthy endeavor and achievement. In other words it should be a morale builder—giving us healthy ego satisfaction."

"We are indeed fortunate if in our forties, fifties and sixties we still know how to play. It is a habit to which we should cling from our youth."

"Yes, recreation keeps us young, and, in supplying our need for recreation, avocations and hobbies may be priceless. We can recall instances where an avocation has completely changed the life of an individual."

"We all need intimacies with whom we can share our joys and sorrows, our ambitions and successes, because the sharing of an experience with another multiplies its value ten fold. "Another aid to the art of living is the possession of a robust philosophy of life."

"Religion attempts to satisfy this human hunger and, for untold thousands, it furnishes anchorage and outlook that may be priceless."

"It is a strange fact, that while we are ready to study everything under the sun, we find ourselves reticent to examine ourselves—to examine our own lives."

"After we gain self knowledge our next step is the hearing of self acceptance. This may be difficult if we find that our equipment appears to be modest."

"But I believe that everyone possesses an asset or two that is superior to that of his neighbor. And, if I am correct in this, there should be little reticence in taking the step of self-acceptance."

"The last hurdle is that of being contented. This constitutes the most significant element in the art of living. The individual who is aping others—who is attempting to do things as other people do them—who is hesitant to strike out on lines of his own—such an individual is failing to contribute effectively to the world's work and is failing to get the satisfaction that comes from natural living."

"Now, a reference to childhood. We can go far in guarding the mental health of the child if we pay attention to such points as the following: his facility in social contacts, his range of interest; his development in relation to the assumption of responsibility; his degree of self-confidence, of self-discipline, of happiness and of love of adventure."

Sunken Treasure

Searching For Gold In Vessel

Wrecked In 1780
In quest of millions in sunken gold, Simon Lake, 70-year-old submarine inventor, trickled half a dozen rusty coins through his fingers and brooded wryly on the "profits" of treasure hunting.

"Nickels, and dimes and junk!" That's all he has to show, so far, on his three-year search for the wreck of the British frigate Husar, lying 12 fathoms deep in the swirling currents of New York's East river, where the ship sank in 1780.

In cold cash, Lake has retrieved $3.87—disregarded by suction pumps delving in the muddy river bed for the bulk of the treasure ship. Lake is mystified about the coins. They're not old English coins like the Husar's treasure trove. They're just fairly modern American specie—the oldest being a 50-cent piece, dated 1914.

"The river bottom must be thick with them," he said, pointing out that the suction pump has operated only around a small sector.

Under the heading of junk, Lake displayed a segment of false teeth, a cheap watch, a pair of brass knuckles, a stickpin and a pearl-handled jackknives of dubious pearl.

For more than half a century Lake watched a dozen or more expeditions try to locate the Husar's golden cache.

"I'm pretty sure I've located the wreck," he said, "but it is buried under mud and tar and it may be weeks before we strike the bulk itself."

The Husar, a full-rigged 28-gun frigate, was wrecked while fleeing with money for the redcoat army after the American revolutionary forces had driven British troops out of New York city.

U.S. National Defence

Plan To Begin Construction Of Two New Battleships

A record peacetime national defence fund of nearly $1,000,000,000, including money to begin construction of two new battleships, was asked by President Roosevelt for the 1938 fiscal year.

Increased expenditures for air planes, ordnance equipment and expanded personnel for both the United States army and navy also were proposed.

The president recommended in his annual budget message to congress a total appropriation of $80,743,000 for the naval and military establishments, an increase of $92,850,000 over estimated outlay for the current fiscal period ending June 30.

The 1937 national defence estimates, aggregating $87,881,000, constituted the previous peacetime high. Actual appropriations for that period, however, amounted to $918,347,391.

To start work on the two battleships, the keels of which he ordered laid only a short time before transmitting increased to $587,202,600 the original navy department estimate for 1938 of $563,996,359.

The budget, besides providing sums necessary for carrying out the navy's regular building programme designed to expand the fleet to full allotted strength by 1942, proposed an outlay of $40,500,000 for the bureau of aeronautics, a $10,000,000 increase over 1938.

Of this sum $28,000,000 would be used to purchase about 400 new air planes, compared with $27,000,000 authorized for that purpose this year.

The president proposed that navy-maintenance pay be boosted from $201,416,452 for 1937 to $214,687,000, to care for additional recruits required by the commissioning of new ships, and that total army pay be raised from $154,323,560 to $162,349,100, to cover similar authorized enlargement of enlisted strength.

Attracted Much Attention

North Carolina Village Advertised For Two Used Jail Cells

Calypto, a North Carolina hamlet, broke into the news recently by advertising in outside papers for "two used jail cells." At latest report nobody with "used jail cells" had answered the ad, but it attracted a lot of attention from curious folk who wanted to know why Calypso wanted "used jail cells." Until last summer, Calypso correspondent explains, the town got by without a jail, sending its occasional offenders to the lock-up of a neighboring village. Then, it appears, some Calypso booster took the community into seeking WPA aid for public improvement. The "improvement" took form of a brick building to be used as a jail and for other municipal services. When completed, it was found that no provision had been made for the "jail cells." Hence the advertisement for "used cells."

A Valuable Painting

Reported To Be Worth $100,000, Will Be Returned To Vancouver From New York

An oil-painting by Bartolomeo Esteban Murillo, once available to Vancouver city museum for $2,000 and now reported to be worth $100,000, will be brought back to Vancouver from New York.

But the painting which hung for more than eight years in an obscure corner of the museum will not be loaned again to the city, Hugh Maxwell, its Vancouver owner, said. Instead, it will be placed in a bank vault for safekeeping.

First announcement that the picture was made by T. P. O. Menzies, curator of the museum, who said he had strongly urged the board of directors to buy it, but the board did not buy. "Nobody in Vancouver would believe it was really a Murillo," Menzies said.

Fritz Kreisler, when he was in Hollywood, was invited to dinner at the home of a prominent producer and was asked to bring along his fiddle. "Sorry," said Kreisler, "but my violin never dines."

Silk For Coronation Robes

Will Be Largest Amount England Has Produced For 800 Years

Intended for the coronation robes of King George and other members of the royal family, 500,000 yards of silk thread is being reeled off from cocoons behind the old walls of Lullingstone Castle at Eynford.

This is the first large amount to be produced in England since the days of King Charles II, nearly 300 years ago. It is the result of the latest batch on the Lullingstone silk farm, with its 50,000 mulberry trees to feed silkworms, which is operated by Lady Hart Dyke.

The silk produced there is considered too valuable to be used in the making of the most expensive silk stockings. Queen Mary recently inspected the farm, and expressed keen interest in the preparation for the coronation robes.

Serial Has No End

Has Been Running In Japanese Newspaper For 20 Years

In one Japanese newspaper they run a serial story that is a veritable Thousand and One Nights' Romance. Already it has passed its 7,300th installment, and this story without apparent end is expected to last for many more months, although it has been running continuously for over twenty years.

Its author has been dead these many years, but that didn't damp the newspaper's enthusiasm for its lengthy tale—they called in the author's son, and each week the story continues as before. Fortunately this author also has a son!

TWO MIRACLES OF MERCY

Golden text: The very works that I do, bear witness of me, that the Father hath sent me. John 5:36.
Lesson: John 5:1—6:7.
Devotional Reading: Colossians 1:9-15.

Explanations And Comments

The Cure at the Pool of Bethesda, John 5:1-14. In Jerusalem by the sheep gate (the gate mentioned in Neh. 3:1; 12:39) there was a pool where the sheep destined for sacrifice were washed. Around the pool porches had been built for the protection of those who came there to bathe. There were small compartments, covered overhead, and open toward the pool. This pool was called in Hebrew Bethesda, which means "House of Mercy." There the sick, the blind, the halt, the withered, collected, hoping to be cured, and among them was a man who had been afflicted for 38 years. His trouble seemingly was paralysis. When Jesus saw him lying there he asked, "Wouldest thou be made whole?" "Yea, thou wilt be made well?" The man had been helpless so long that he had lost all hope, and Jesus first aroused his desire, his will, to be cured.

"Arise, take up thy bed, and walk," Jesus said. The man was only a blanket, or mat, which could be easily rolled up and carried. Often it was only one's last garment. Immediately the man was able to do as Jesus bade.

It was the Sabbath on which this cure took place, and the Jews told the man that it was not lawful for him to take up his bed. The man replied that he who had healed him had bade him to do this but he could not tell them for Jesus was no longer there. Afterwards Jesus met this man in the temple and bade him sin no more, and a word which befell him, the inference being that his affliction was due to sin.

The Feeding of Five Thousand on the Northeastern Shore of the Sea of Galilee, John 6:1-14. Jesus is the Source of Life—this is the thought at the closest John 5: Jesus is the Sustainer of life—this is the thought of John 6.

This feeding of the five thousand is recorded by all four Evangelists and has been studied so frequently in our course of lessons that no explanation nor comment will be needed.

Foreign Exchange Savings

Cost Of Settling Foreign Accounts Of Post Office Department Cut In Half

Cost of settling the foreign accounts of Canada's post office department were practically cut in half this last year through closer co-operation of the department with the Bank of Canada, it was learned.

Transactions in foreign exchange, which amounted to more than $37,000,000 a year, have been one of the major problems of the financial branch during the last five years of vacillating exchange rates, with grey hairs resulting from more than one official.

The result of these savings to the man on the street, though he hears little about it from the department, is reduced cost to money orders to the United States, Britain and elsewhere, which is the aggregate, since reaches a substantial figure. Since orders are sold closer to the market rate now, where there might have been a five-cent exchange charge on sterling before there is one of about two cents, where the margin charged on United States orders was around two cents, it is now half a cent or one cent.

A New Industry

Laboratory Is Cultivating Ladybugs To Eat Other Bugs

A new kind of live stock raising—growing of ladybugs to eat other bugs—was announced before the Entomological Society of America in Atlantic City, N.J. The ladybugs are cultivated in the laboratory and sent out to farmers to eat up the bugs on their crops. Dr. Gordon W. Haugh of Ohio State University told the entomologists he feeds the ladybugs carefully throughout the winter on their favorite food, insects known as aphids, in order to have armies of them ready in the spring to start their campaign.

Leipzig Zoo Hails Record

The Leipzig zoo recently announced that a thousand lions had been born within its walls, a record said to be without parallel in the history of zoological gardens of the world. The Leipzig zoo breeds wild animals for other zoos throughout the world.

Relics Being Preserved

Canada's Flying History Is Being Shown In Museum Collection

Relics of the earliest developments in Canadian aviation are now being preserved, the whole story of Canada's unique part in the progress of flying being told in a collection in process of assembly at the newly established aeronautical museum housed in the building of the National Research Council in Ottawa.

Acquisition of the various exhibits has occupied Major General A. G. I. MacNaughton, chairman of the National Research Council, for some time.

Most important is the engine of the "Silver Dart," which made the first successful flight in the British Empire. This plane was built by the late Dr. Alexander Graham Bell at Baddeck, N.S., and flown in February, 1909, by J. A. C. McCurdy. Associated with McCurdy was F. W. "Casey" Baldwin, pioneer aviator, yachtman and member of the Nova Scotia legislature.

First flight by the "Silver Dart" was half a mile, on February 23, 1909. Next day, at 30 feet, 4 1/2 miles was covered over the Bras D'Or Lakes, while on March 10 all previous records were shattered when the "Silver Dart" flew 20 miles.

Five months later the machine was cracked up landing at Petawawa camp when Baldwin was demonstrating it to military authorities.

Other exhibits in the new national museum include the model propellers carved by Dr. Graham Bell while studying aerial methods of propulsion.

The war-time "crater" flown by the late Col. A. Barker, V.C., one of the Canadian aces of the Royal Flying Corps, is in the collection. The wings and fuselage are riddled with bullet holes, all of which have been carefully patched, but which are nevertheless noticeable.

Involved Much Work

English Sculptor Found Lion A Very Restless Model

It is likely that Sir William Reid Dick will be the sculptor, and Sir Giles Gilbert Scott the architect, of the memorial statue of King George VI to be erected facing the House of Parliament.

Sir William, a cheerful Scot of 57, has the advantage that he made a portrait bust, commissioned by King George himself, only three years ago.

One of his best-known works is the gigantic stone lion on the Menin Gate Memorial at Ypres. It involved far more work than any human portrait, for Sir William found when he looked for models in the Zoo that the lion is a particularly restless beast. It was a year longer than Sir William, Sir Giles Gilbert Scott has been famous much longer, for he was only 22 when his design for Liverpool's $1,500,000 cathedral was accepted.

When the nave was finished he was passing through a mid-air aged woman spoke to him, not knowing that he was the architect.

She rhapsodized about the beauties of the building, ending with, "And to think that it could have originated in the puny brain of an insignificant man!"

Scott, duly put in his place, fled without a word.—London Daily Sketch.

Record Is Unusual

Lord Crewe Held Position Of Confidence Under Three Former Sovereigns

The graceful little speech in which Lord Crewe, in the House of Lords, incidentally referred to himself as "one who, like very few of our lordships has had the honor of serving three great sovereigns in a position of confidence" must have sent a good many people's memories searching into the past. The last Liberal Ministry of Queen Victoria's reign went out of office in 1895, so that we are carried back forty years at least. Actually Lord Crewe, who is 79, was Lord Lieutenant of Ireland under that administration. He had been Lord-in-Waiting to the Queen nine years before that—fifty years ago.—London Spectator.

In Turkey, the lower classes invest their savings in copper utensils, their standing in the community being measured by the number of such utensils they possess.

SAYS TARIFFS ESTABLISHED BY CHEAP WHEAT

Winnipeg.—R. K. Williams, counsel for Manitoba Pool Elevators, Limited, contended before the Turgeon royal grain commission that fear of effects of cheap wheat on their economic system and not high prices was a factor in European importing countries establishing tariffs and quotas.

Mr. Williams disclosed the contention when examining A. E. Darby, secretary of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange who earlier had said importing countries feared a "combination of producers in exporting countries would result in an era of unduly high prices attained by artificial means."

High prices for wheat from exporting countries did not create a problem for importing countries, Mr. Williams contended. European countries, he suggested to Mr. Darby, established the tariffs, quotas, etc. to protect themselves from general financial conditions.

Mr. Darby said he could not agree. There was a market for Canadian grain but the buyers were not anxious to pay more for it than they found necessary. He quoted publications to show that the tariff agreement that Canadian wheat pools were acting to drive wheat prices up.

Mr. Williams quoted the 1933 international wheat agreement, which never became effective, to show that importing countries were ready to accept policies fostering wheat consumption and to discourage any increase in wheat acreage. Improvement in the world price of wheat would have brought lowering of duties.

His reference to a "combination of producers in exporting countries," said Mr. Darby included the Canadian wheat pools. When Mr. Williams asked if there were any others that could be included, Mr. Darby said there were pool organizations in Australia.

The Winnipeg Grain Exchange had never considered its support necessary, Mr. Darby said. Its members had always considered the free and open market system best. Mr. Darby added when Mr. Williams asked if the grain exchange members opposed establishment of a wheat board in any form.

References were made to submissions of the grain exchange to the parliamentary committee investigating wheat last spring which led to appointment of Mr. Justice W. F. A. Ferguson, of Regina, to make the present inquiry.

A. E. Hoskin, K.C., and Isaac Pitblado K.C., counsel for the exchange, pointed out that the exchange realized gravity of wheat marketing conditions and some aid to producers might be advisable. They contended the sooner the return to free and open marketing methods the sooner difficulties would disappear. They pointed out grain exchange members had suggested a wheat board to dispose of government wheat holdings through the open market.

Beauharnois Wins Case

Judgment For $573,750 Against Ontario Hydro Commission

Toronto.—Judgment for $573,750 and interest was given by Chief Justice Hugh E. Rose in favor of Beauharnois Light, Heat and Power Company of Montreal against the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission.

The company claimed in its supreme court action that the amount awarded was due under an agreement with the commission by which it was to supply or hold available for the commission 250,000 horsepower of electric energy at $15 per horsepower. Beauharnois contracts with the commission were cancelled under the Power Commission Act, 1935, passed by the Ontario legislature.

The chief justice provided that the commission pay $573,750 and interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum on $183,750 from Nov. 20, 1935, on $245,000 from Oct. 20, 1935, and on $245,000 from Jan. 20, 1936, until date of the judgment. He also awarded the company costs. 2136

Goering Goes To Rome

Seeks Views Of Premier Mussolini On Reich Colonial Ambitions

Berlin.—Premier Mussolini's views on armaments and aid to German colonial ambitions took Air Minister Hermann Goering to Rome, it was disclosed.

The Reich, it was emphasized, wanted to know just how far Mussolini would go along if Chancellor Hitler forced the colonial issue to a decision in economic parleys with France.

The question of military strength and armaments, authoritative sources said, would be a continuation of discussions begun during the visit here last year by General Giuseppe Valle, Italian undersecretary for war.

Obviously a "vacation," Goering's Rome visit would serve a "useful political purpose," these sources said.

A foreign office communique announced negotiations already under way for a trade treaty between Germany and France. Any economic agreement, it was believed here, would include also political commitments by Hitler on armaments and peace in Europe. Many believed definite action also might be taken toward returning to Germany some of her possessions lost in the Great War, if Hitler pledged Germany to keep the peace.

Build Up Wheat Reserves

Britain Plans To Accumulate Large Reserves Of Grain

London.—Plans to build up huge reserves of wheat and other food stuffs will be submitted to parliament, officials of the new food defence plans department said.

They explained buying funds had not started until the necessary funds had been appropriated, but predicted that a reserve sufficient for between six months and a year would be accumulated gradually.

Experts believed Britain would need to store 3,650,000 tons of wheat (approximately 136,250,000 bushels) for a full year's reserve, but doubted this much would be obtained in the near future because of the cost and storage difficulties.

Other essentials needed for a year's supply would include 5,000,000 tons of potatoes, 2,250,000 tons of onions, 1,250,000 tons of cheese, and 625,000 tons of butter or margarine.

Resolution On Order Paper

Conscription Of Wealth For War Purposes Will Be Discussed

Ottawa.—Conscription of wealth in the event of war is at least assured of discussion in the forthcoming session of the House of Commons. A resolution to that effect has been placed on the order paper by T. C. Douglas, young Co-operative Commonwealth Federation member for Weyburn, Saskatchewan. The resolution reads:

"In the opinion of this house the government of the day immediately bring down legislation to provide that in the event of a war in which Canada is actively participating, there shall be an automatic conscription of all wealth, industrial, financial, transportation, natural resources, for the duration of the war, and that a penalty shall be imposed for the violation thereof."

Many Take Housing Loans

Total Number In Canada Is Given As 1,818

Quebec.—Quebec ranks second to Ontario in the number of loans made by banks under the federal home improvement plan, it was announced by the secretary of the Quebec board of trade. Figures for the provinces were supplied the local trade board by C. E. Gravel, chairman of the consultative committee for the province of Quebec.

Up to Dec. 1, 1936, a total of 322 loans had been made Quebecers through banks, the loans totalling $109,517, an average of $495 per loan. Ontario led the Dominion with 696 loans totalling $242,912, an average of $350 per loan.

Total number of loans in the Dominion is given as 1,818 representing $682,170, or an average of $375 for each loan. The loans by provinces are, in addition to Ontario and Quebec: Manitoba, 84 loans, $24,374, $350; Saskatchewan, 52 loans, $15,135, $294; Alberta, 145 loans, $64,795, $440.

German-Franco Treaty

Negotiations Are Under Way For Trade Treaty Between The Two Countries

Berlin.—A government communique officially announced negotiations were under way for a trade treaty between Germany and France.

The announcement, first official confirmation of a rapprochement move between the two countries whose relations had been strained over the Spanish civil war, also stated Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, minister of economic affairs, had cancelled his scheduled trip to Paris.

Dr. Schacht, who was to open the German building at the Paris exposition, notified the German commissioner for the exposition his duties in Berlin were too heavy to allow him to be absent.

The communique added: "German-French negotiations for a trade treaty for the present will be conducted by departmental experts."

Foreign Enlistment Act

Legality In Dominions Is Problem For Legal Experts

London.—Legal experts are confronted with the problem of whether the Foreign Enlistment Act applies or does not apply to the Dominions.

The weight of opinion inclines to the view that where a dominion has not passed repelling legislation the Foreign Enlistment Act does apply to all British subjects whether in the dominions or not. The effect of this will be that volunteers for Spain from any dominion (unless that dominion has passed contrary legislation) will be liable to the same penalty of two years' imprisonment as volunteers from the United Kingdom.

Under clause IV. of the Statute of Westminster no act of the parliament of the United Kingdom passed after the commencement of the Statute of Westminster extends to a dominion as part of the law of that dominion unless it is expressly declared in the British act that such dominion has requested and consented to enactment. Therefore the abridgment bill passed by the British parliament applied to Canada because the Canadian government both "requested and consented" to its enactment.

Body Is Returned

Body Of Belgian Attaché At Madrid Embassy Sent To Brussels

Toulon, France.—Body of Baron Jacques de Borchgrave, Belgian attaché at the Madrid embassy, was brought here aboard the French destroyer Kersaint.

Belgium had given the Valencia Socialist administration short notice to send the body out of Spain, charging the baron was killed during an uprising among foreign volunteer troops fighting for the government. The body will be taken to Brussels by special train.

Receives Souvenir Book

French Minister To Canada Helped Greatly With Vimy Pilgrimage

Ottawa.—Voicing appreciation for the services he rendered on behalf of France during the formative stages of last year's Vimy pilgrimage, Brigadier General Alex Ross, C.M.G., of Yorkton, Sask., Dominion president of the Canadian Legion, presented Hon. Raymond Brugere, French minister to Canada, with a pilgrim's badge and the souvenir book of the pilgrimage. General Ross thanked the minister for all his efforts in facilitating the progress of the pilgrims in France.

Resigns Seat

Member Of Quebec Legislature Tenders Resignation For No Stated Reason

Quebec.—Resignation of Dr. Raoul Poulin, Union Nationale member of Quebec legislature for Beauce county, was accepted by the government. Dr. Poulin tendered his resignation Nov. 15, giving no reason for the step.

Date for the by-election to fill the vacancy was not set.

Dr. Poulin's resignation leaves the house standing by parties as follows: Union Nationale, 75; Liberal, 14; vacant, 1.

BRITISH VESSEL IS FREED BY ARRIVAL OF DESTROYER

London.—A British destroyer caused a Spanish insurgent trawler to free the British steamship Bramhall in the Straits of Gibraltar, official sources disclosed.

The destroyer Sussex arrived under forced draft after the Bramhall, stopped by the armed trawler, wirelessly a request for assistance, officials said.

The insurgent vessel immediately sailed away and the Bramhall was allowed to go on toward Bilbao, on the northern Spanish coast, after the destroyer's officers found she had no arms shipments.

Officials cited the firm action of the Sussex's commander as an example of the government's determination not to permit interference with British vessels doing a lawful business and not carrying arms to Spain in violation of British law.

Government sources disclosed the administration was puzzled as to what action to take in connection with the reported seizure of British-owned copper mines in Spain by General Francisco Franco, insurgent commander-in-chief.

The reports said the Rio Tinto and the Tharsis Copper companies had been compelled to sell their copper to Germany at 42 pesetas to the pound sterling. The current rate, fixed at greater, is 80 to 90 pesetas to the pound.

A French firm was reported to be faced with similar instructions.

General Franco's denial insurgent planes had bombed the British embassy building in Madrid was received skeptically in government circles, but usually informed persons said they believed no further action would be taken. Britain had protested the alleged bombings to General Franco's junta.

Wheat Carryover Solved

Excess Surplus Will Be Wiped Out By End Of Next July

Ottawa.—The government will meet the new session of parliament with one of the nation's problems, the wheat surplus, solved at least for the present. For several years the burden of great quantities of wheat stored in the Dominion ranked next to the problem of railway deficits and unemployment.

Figures now available show that wheat in store in Canada on Jan. 8 was 146,353,872 bushels less than on the corresponding date last year and as the carryover at the end of the crop year, July 31 last, was 108,747,059 bushels all the surplus would be wiped out before the end of next July were the sales to keep up to last year's average. They have run much higher than a year ago for the first half of the crop year.

With reports of European nations, including the United Kingdom, desiring to build up wheat supplies against a possible war, Canada's store of wheat is no longer a worry. The carryover reached the high of 211,740,188 bushels at the end of the crop year in 1933 and was still up to 203,273,016 in 1935.

Change In Status

First British Ambassador To Egypt Presents Credentials

Cairo.—Sir Miles Lampson, first British ambassador to Egypt, presented his credentials to the regency council at Abdin palace.

Elaborate pageantry marked the change in the status of the British representative. For two years previously Sir Miles was British high commissioner. Under the Anglo-Egyptian treaty ratifications of which were exchanged a few weeks ago, the British residency became an embassy.

Riding in a state coach, the new ambassador was greeted at the palace by a guard of honor and the playing of the British national anthem.

VICEROY OF INDIA HAS DELICATE PROBLEM TO HANDLE

On April 1st the new constitution of India becomes effective in the vast Indian Empire. It took Great Britain more than eight years to prepare a constitution which grants India self-rule with certain reservations, but Gandhi and his Nationalists are not satisfied with it in its present form. They do not wish to have reservations, but to be entirely self-ruling. Because of the acute religious differences in India, the British Government does not see how complete self-rule will work at present, and as a matter of fact only the presence of British police is a safety valve on a veritable volcano of religious strife. Above are pictures of Lord Linlithgow (right), Viceroy of India, and Mahatma Gandhi, the Nationalist leader. In the centre is a map of India which gives a graphic description of the problem faced by the Viceroy and the British Government. The area in white is British ruled, while the black area, with a population of 75,000,000 is under the ruling princes.

She knew Sapphira must have more powders in the extra luggage the colored woman had brought along. Feverishly she hunted for them, tossing lovely fingerings, expensive vials, boxes, every which way, here and there. At last she found the box she recognized. It was filled with little packages. She moved across the floor with them to the table on which the glass of water was all ready for her. With shaking fingers she began opening the little packages, one after the other, counting—one, two, three, four. . . She emptied them all into the glass. A strange excitement possessed her. She must hurry, hurry, hurry, before someone came to stop her!

The liquid foamed right to the top of the glass, a life-giving looking sort of liquid which was a far-which meant death in its foolish imitation of life's effervescence. Starr picked up the glass.

With a gesture of bravado, she held it up in a toast, in just the same way that "Play-Girl" had tilted her champagne glass to meet the laughing, admiring face of some man.

Starr Ellison's toast, the toast she thought would be her last, was to the pale, wild-eyed woman who faced her in the mirror.

But even as the glass touched her lips, her plan was rudely frustrated. There was a sudden noise behind her. A man's hand stretched out and knocked the glass from her fingers. The white liquid, not through its effervescence, foamed against the beige rug of one of Stephanie Dale's guest rooms.

Too late! Her fear had not been imaginary. . . Again Fate was laughing at her. Her hurry had not been sufficient. . .

The blurred figure beside hers in the mirror took definite shape. Starr choked out a sharp cry, swinging around.

"Michael!" He said sharply: "You won't need a sedative tonight!"

He did not understand, of course, just what he had interrupted. He had never understood Starr from the beginning. He never would.

He looked very big and masterful, and altogether too much of any woman's ideal of a man as he stood there, not far behind Starr, framed in the open doorway to the terrace. His gray eyes were glowing with a strange fire that, was not of this modern generation at all, but to Starr quickly recognizable as the fire that might have glowed in the eyes of any strange seah of Araby. Modern, yes—tremendously, vitally so. But—

His hard young mouth curved recklessly. The sleek lines of his waved hair which he always sought to repress had broken into little ruffled waves, wet and unruly.

Starr did not know how she found her voice. It was a strange, muffled voice that asked:

"What are you doing here, Michael? What do you want?"

He gave a short laugh. "What should I want in a lovely, dangerous woman's boudoir at midnight. . . The answer ought to be obvious."

Daggers of ice pricked Starr's spine. Here was a situation which was entirely foreign to her. One with which she did not know how to cope, for the simple reason that it was completely out of the scheme of all her experiences. She met it upstanding.

We haven't anything to say to each other, Michael-Hansen," she said coolly, deliberately using the nickname which would presuppose her lack of interest.

His lip curled. "Haven't we, Starr?"

He was moving closer. He was overwhelmingly close, boring her through with those relentless gray eyes of his. He said, as smoothly as though they were discussing the next day's program:

"On the contrary, my dear, I think we have a lot to say to each other. We've been fooling ourselves, you and I, playing a game of bluff. But I've seen through it. And you ought to know you can't trifle with emotions which are stronger than men. You didn't really think that things could end like this, did you?"

The grim determination of his face added deep significance to his words. Starr took a shivering backward step away from him. Her thin, frail hand was held against her lips in terror. She breathed:

"Michael, have you gone crazy?"

"That strange laugh echoed again. Michael threw back his head to give freedom to it.

"Crazy? Yes! Sure I'm crazy. I'm crazy about you—mad as a June hatter. I hate you, and yet I can't keep away from you. Riddle me that, will you? You—you're a devil from the burning sands, a real enigma of the desert; if the truth were known, and you're bewitched me! You're anathema, but I love you! You're poison in my blood!"

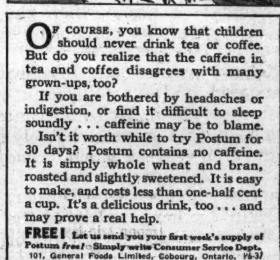

Starr cried out wildly, keeping her voice as repressed as emotion would allow.

"Michael! You're insane! You mustn't say such things! Here in Stephanie Dale's home, and you're going to marry her!"

"I'm not going to marry Stephanie Dale," Michael contradicted grimly. "I hope I'm not that stripe of cad. It wouldn't be fair to her, with your shadow between her and me, which it would be—always! I'll always be branded as the sort of cad they do know about by everybody who knows me of course. I'm expecting that. I'm prepared for it. It doesn't matter in the slightest. . . Nothing matters, except that I want you!"

Step by step he came forward. Straight into the tortured pores of her long black eyes he looked, her mysterious eyes. This time he was too blinded by his own passion to see the reflection of her suffering that was mirrored starkly. He flung at her:

DAD GIVES A GOOD TIP

"If you want to play, I'll play with you! You are going to marry me now, tonight! Oh, I'll all be the way you like it—all play! We'll jazz up the wedding march, burlesque the marriage vows—make it playground marriage! We'll play—and how!"

Marriage! That one incredulous word stuck in Starr's throat.

Oh, this was all preposterous! It was all more like a nightmare dream than anything she had known since the day she shivered beside a damp, moss-oozing wall, and saw a three-thousand-year-old priestess shiver to dust, and heard. . . She would not think of it!

Michael was joking, of course. He must have had more to drink than he had thought, and this was his idea of a swell aftermath to a party, and a getting even.

She was wrong! She saw that on the instant of seeing Michael's face plainly in her dim boudoir light. He meant what he said. He had never been more dead in earnest. The defiant set of his firm, lean jaw spoke of a ruthless purpose.

Starr felt torn inside from the force of her own conflicting thoughts and emotions. There was the part of her that wanted Michael more than she wanted anything else in earth or heaven, even in spite of the cavernous way he would take her—perhaps because of it. She was not sure.

On the other hand, there was the deep voice of conscience, warning her that she had not the right to marry any man, not even Michael. Oh, most particularly Michael! Her sacrifice to that ideal had already been placed on the altar.

And in the distance. . . There was a throbbing like the beat of tom-toms in her veins, like the rhythm of the drums of stretched gongs, heard in the desert, never forgotten. . . Primitive passions, fighting for freedom. Passions the most effete civilization could never dampen.

Starr waged her silent battle, the lights flickering before her like tantalizing pinpoints of beckoning temptation. Then—it was through frozen lips that she retorted:

"You're completely raving crazy, Michael Fairbourne! I wouldn't marry you if you were the last man on earth. Why should I?"

"Of course I don't expect you to settle down and raise babies. I know better than that—now. Ours will be a play marriage, like all the rest of your playing, except that it will be real, as far as you're concerned. Our play-marriage will end tonight. Tomorrow I'm going away—I don't know where. It doesn't matter. The wedding ceremony will be a memory between us. . . To me it will be a safeguard to insure me from ever making a fool of myself over a woman again."

Starr awayed and her breath seemed driven out of her body as her eyes close to shut out the pain. Everything else had been offered her—and now this! Play-girl bride for a night to satisfy a man's bitter desire for revenge! Was she to suffer this final humiliation before her fatal turn burned out?

A desperate silence waited them. He was waiting for her to speak. A desperate thought was milling around in her brain. Suppose somebody came—found them? Stephanie. . .

Somehow she must get Michael out of this room. Perhaps outside she could reason with him.

The seriousness that had tensed her words before changed to lightness. She glanced down at the flimsiness of her white silk nightdress and the guinness of the smitten negligee that veiled it. She smiled ruefully, and when she spoke, she seemed to give in.

"All right, Michael-Hansen," she said, with a rippling subdued laugh. "Have it your own way. You always do. Only give me a chance to slip into something in which I won't freeze to death. . . She gave him a playful shove. "Go on, and get your car, and don't make too much noise about it!"

Little Helps For This Week

Being confident of this very thing, that He who hath begun a good work in you will perform it. Phil. 1:6.

Fill with inviolable peace; Establish and keep my settled heart; In These may all my wanderings cease; From These may I no more depart; Thy utmost goodness called to prove, Loved with an everlasting love.

What is it that makes us unable to persevere? It is not want of strength, for we have with us the strength of the Holy Spirit. We have never set ourselves sincerely to any work according to the will of God and failed for want of strength. It was not that strength failed the will, but that the will failed Starr. We open only certain chambers of our will to the influence of the Divine, and yet if we would have peace we must be altogether united to God.

"So you want to marry my daughter, yet? Well, could you lend me $1,000 for a year's interest?"

"Most certainly I could, but I won't."

"Good for you, take her, mine son."

BENEFITS OF OPEN MARKET OUTLINED TO GRAIN INQUIRY.

Grain Exchange Not Opposed to Appointment of Government Supervisor.

By SAM ROSS.

Winnipeg—Benefits of the open market and futures method of trading, criticism of "holding" policies and questions on regulation of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange were placed on the records of the Turgeon Royal Grain Commission last week.

W Sanford Evans, a member of the Stamp Commission of 1931, urged development of known markets for disposal of grain, because the finding of new markets where Canadian wheat was unknown, would be difficult.

Criticising the policy of withholding grain from the market, Mr Evans said that if a created demand were not met, it would disappear forever. It was possible to carry over physical wheat, but it was impossible to carry over hunger.

The price factor in disposal of wheat was important. A certain quantity could be sold when it was held for a higher price, but it was essential that, to dispose of wheat, the price must be within reach of consumers. If there were large supplies of wheat, then the price must go down to permit its purchasing by "the marginal group of consumers."

Hon J L Ralston pointed out practically all wheat accumulated under stabilization efforts had now been disposed of. Mr Evans contended it could have been sold more profitably if disposed of in the crop year in which it had been harvested.

In giving his evidence, W J Dowler, Pres. Winnipeg Grain Exchange, declared the open market and futures method of trading brought the most beneficial results to all. "We feel justified in asserting that experience has established the superiority of the open market system over all methods in respect to cost, efficiency and adaptability to the necessities of the case," he declared.

The value of the futures market, Mr Dowler contended, was shown in the establishment of such markets since 1926 for silk, tobacco, cocoa, rubber, tin, hides etc. Another instance was the establishment of a futures market for soya

The "Big Interests" In Life Insurance

Are the Policyholders and Beneficiaries

IN Life Insurance, the "Big Interests" are the millions of Canadian policyholders and beneficiaries—men, women and children who share in the protection made possible by individual thrift and foresight.

The concern of those who act on behalf of these policyholders and beneficiaries is to safeguard their interests. Their accumulated savings, amounting to more than two billion dollars, must be invested wisely to obtain the greatest yield consistent with safety. Every promise made in Life Insurance policies must be fulfilled completely and promptly.

Canadian policyholders may feel justly proud of the wise and careful administration of their trust funds. Even in the darkest days of the depression, their companies met every obligation promptly and fully—bringing financial security to thousands of Canadian homes.

There is added satisfaction in the fact that the investment of Life Insurance funds has helped to build Canadian homes, schools and hospitals—and develop agriculture, industries and public utilities. Thus, the whole Dominion benefits from Life Insurance.

In the future, as in the past, Canadian policyholders and beneficiaries must always be the "Big Interests" of Life Insurance.

In reference to extension of wheat markets Mr Dowler declared:

"The individual opinions of the members as to Governmental policies may vary considerably;

"But the unanimous view of the Council of the Exchange in regard to the marketing of grain in the future is that it can be most efficiently conducted by maintaining the open market and the futures trading method;

"That the channels by which Canadian grain can be most distributed are those developed by the shippers and exporters here operating in conjunction with grain merchants in the consuming markets;

"That the expansion of these markets will be best attained by facilitating the operations of this branch of the trade;

"And that the objectives of Government policy should be the removal of the barriers imposed by other countries to the movement into consumption of Canadian grain and the extension of the knowledge thruout the world of the superior quality of Canadian wheat."
